

Student Rules for Computer Use:

As a condition of access to the computers at Chatsworth High School, students must agree to the following:

- I will be responsible for the computer I am working on and will report any incidents of vandalism or theft to the teacher. These might include writing on the computer, unplugging or changing of hardware components, removing or loosening keyboard keys, removal of mouse balls or the mouse itself, and/or other destructive acts.
- Refreshments are not allowed in the computer areas. Computer labs are only available for students working on assignments. Friends must wait for me elsewhere. All other school and classroom rules also apply.
- I understand that I do not have a right of privacy in my Internet account. I also understand that the Los Angeles Unified School District may monitor my use of the computer system and the Internet. Obscene, abusive, harassing, or inappropriate communication may be sanctioned without notice.
- I will not share my login or password with others, and I will not seek to obtain those of others. I will work only in my own file area and will not communicate anonymously or in another person's name.
- I am responsible for remembering my network login name and password, for keeping myself informed about computer use and classroom/computer lab rules, and for abiding by them.
- I will not try to hack the system, nor load onto the computer any hacking programs, nor will I attempt any unauthorized access to the system. I will not attempt to delete, alter, or reposition any electronic documents unless authorized to do so. I will not test our network for security breaches; it is unauthorized and forbidden.
- I will not attempt to install software on the system or onto any computer, nor will I attempt to make a copy of copyrighted software. I will only use software provided by Chatsworth High School.
- I will do my best to avoid infecting the school computers with viruses by using anti-virus software to check my diskettes at home or elsewhere, and if this is not available, by having my disks checked by someone in the computer department before using them on the school system.
